NEON BEACONS LIGHT COAST What at first seemed a Utopian dream—establishment of a string of Neon Beacon towers from Mexico to Canada along Pacific Highways—is rapidly becoming a reality. It won't be long now before this country side "Great White Way" for motorists and filers will be in operation.

This was disclosed in the announcement just made here by officials of the Richfield Oil company, one of the backers of the project, that framework is now actually being fabricated for 36 of the monster beacon towers which are to be spotted at 60-mile intervals.

Involved in the plan, as already announced by press dispatches, is the establishment of ideal villages at each of the sites of the beacon towers.

Locations for the towers, and model service stations which will be built at the base of the beacons, are being selected by William C. Paul of the Richfield Company, and Paul D. Howe, president of Electrical Products Corporation.

The next move will be purchase of sites. It is anticipated that, by September 1st, all 36 of the brilliant towers of Claud Neon light, each surrounded by a special aviator's guide, will be blazing a Mexico-to-Canada path for aviators and autoists. The first tower, it is declared, is to be installed at once.
